WOMAN FREED AFTER QUIZ IN COLLINGS CASE

Surrenders After Barricading Herself in Jersey City Apartment.

TELLS POLICE NOTHING

Coroner Adjourns Inquest with Murder Still Total Mystery.

By The Associated Press
JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 26.—A registered nurse who barricaded herself in her apartment for hours to avoid telling police about a report that she had information concerning the Collings murder case, finally decided to talk today and then it was found that she had nothing to tell.

The report was that Miss Leona Adverts Muttart, the nurse, knew of two men who had a motive for killing Benjamin Collings of Stamford. After lengthy questioning, during which she convinced officials of the district attorney's office of Suffolk county, Long Island, that she had no such knowledge, she was released.

"We didn't get any information from her and I don't believe she had any," said Assistant District Attorney Fred J. Munder of Suffolk county. "I think a wrong construction was placed on words she uttered."

Miss Muttart at first refused to leave her apartment and with equal insistence refused to let police enter. Her hours they argued with her, shouting their pleas through the locked doors, and at last she bowed to their wishes.

But by that time crowds had gathered in the streets and dozens of reporters and camera men were waiting to get a glimpse of her. She said she would go to police headquarters if she could be protected from any contact with the press or public.

Police swathed her in blankets so tightly she could scarcely walk and in this manner, looking more like a mummy than a woman, she was half-dressed, half-carried out of the building and into an automobile.

INQUEST ADJOURNED

Collings' Brother and Physician Demand; Widow Declines To Talk Further.

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The inquest into the strange murder of Benjamin P. Collings in Long Island sound reconvened today with Herbert Collings, brother of the slain man, on the witness stand. He was followed by Dr. Otto H. Schultz, who performed the autopsy on Collings' body.

Collings told of officially identifying his brother's body after it had been washed ashore 20 days ago.

He knew of no enemies his brother had, no affairs with other women, and no reason for the strange murder.

Dr. Schultz testified the immediate cause of death was drowning and that contributing cause was binding of the victim's hands. Asked by District Attorney Busch about evidence of blows on Collings' head, Dr. Schultz stood up and declared:

"That is beside the point, gentlemen. The finding is death by drowning—goodbye." And with that he walked from the room. The inquest then was adjourned until Oct. 2.

Objections of Mrs. Collings to further testimony added complications to the inquest.

Mrs. Collings, nervous and almost at the point of collapse after three hours of questioning yesterday, turned to her father-in-law, H. P. Collings, and her attorney, William A. Kelly, at adjournment and said: "I am not going on the stand again today, and I don't promise to come back here either."

DROUTH REVEALS SWAMP TRAGEDY

By The Associated Press
ALEXANDRIA, Minn., Sept. 26.—This summer's long drouth has made funeral services possible for Otto Dahl, 34 years after his death. They will be held tomorrow. Dahl disappeared from his home on April 23, 1900, in a swamp, where he had gone presumably to search for cattle. No trace of him was found until a few days ago when his skeleton, identified through dental work, was found by a boy wandering over an area of the swamp which had been dried up by the summer's heat.

BRITTEN READY WITH WET BILL

Pledges Introduction of Repeal Proposal in Next Congress.

BOTH SIDES IN ACTION

Senator Sheppard To Revive Bills Making Liquor Buyer Liable.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The thrusting forward early of prohibition as a controversial issue has been promised the next congress.

From the writer of the bill, the American Legion's demand for a referendum on the liquor question arose today a pledge by an anti-prohibitionist that a bill for repeal of the Volstead act would be introduced soon after congress convenes. It came from Representative Britten of Illinois.

On the other side of the fence, Senator Sheppard of Texas, co-author of the Eighteenth amendment, expects to resurrect his bill making the purchaser of liquor equally guilty with the seller, and also clarifying the Volstead act to prohibit liquor making in the home.

At Omaha, Neb., the veteran Texas prohibitionist predicted the legion's action would have slight effect. He asserted an overwhelming majority of both houses of congress would oppose submission of prohibition to the voters.

Representative Britten saw in the legion's vote the "death-knell" of prohibition. He asserted if the service organization and the American Federation of Labor would use "their tremendous persuasive power" they could bring about repeal of the Volstead law during the impending congressional session.

Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the world league against alcoholism, said repeated statements by wet newspapers that the legion's action would continue to support prohibition for political effect was a "lax confession" that the majority of the voters of this country are dry.

FRENCH LEADERS ON VISIT TO GERMANY

Europe Awaits Possible "Burying of Hatchet" by Two Great Powers.

By The Associated Press
PARIS, Sept. 26.—Europe awaits with consuming interest not unmixed with anxiety the results of the official visits that Premier Pierre Laval and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand are making to Berlin tonight.

The visit may lead to a "burial of the hatchet" by two great nations which have been more or less antagonistic and certainly mighty rivals for power since the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 and the great war.

M. Briand, "apostle of peace," who has been calumnyed by many of his own people for seeking a rapprochement with Germany, finds in this visit a crowning of his hopes. Worn and broken from age and hard work, he is confident that there are enough peace-loving people in both Germany and France to realize the necessity of genuine cooperation in every line of activity.

M. Laval, France's "Jacobin" statesman who has won a name both at home and abroad as a shrewd and capable leader, will bring to the conversations the freshness and optimism of comparative youth. He is 47. With France solidly backing his ideas, he will be able to tell Chancellor Brüning and Foreign Minister Curius that the French republic wishes sincerely to collaborate with its great neighbor, Germany.

Some anxiety has been voiced in Paris as to how Laval and Briand will be received by the people of Germany and whether or not fascist followers of Adolf Hitler might stage manifestations against France.

RESCUED FLIERS ARRIVE IN N. Y.

In the top picture, taken by the International Illustrated News Photo service, Willy Kady, youthful German pilot, and his two companions are shown after their arrival in New York City yesterday. The late pilot found death seven days as they stood on their wrecked plane on the sea 30 miles from Hatteras after being forced down in an attempt to land on a small island off the coast of North Carolina. Photo shows (left) and Kady (right). Fernando Costa Vega, Portuguese sportsman and co-pilot, is shown with nurse Mildred Bruno. Vega was injured when knocked against the airplane motor by a mountainous wave. The bottom picture, by Associated Press, gives a remarkable view of the fliers as they step ashore their wrecked plane before their rescue by the motorship, Melmor.

60 Students Injured as Wind Hits Schoolhouse

RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 26.—Crumbling during a severe windstorm, the roof of the high school building at Boston, near here, collapsed last yesterday, and fell into the second story rooms, injuring 60 to 65 pupils, and critically and at least three seriously.

The building housed 200 students. Most of the injured suffered nothing worse than severe bruises. Physicians at first feared, however, that the injuries of Janice Williams, 14, might prove fatal. After an operation she was much improved, they said, today, and probably will recover. Billy Holder, 14, and Lawrence Weller and Ruth Daugherty, both under 14 years of age, were considered in a serious but not a dangerous condition.

Other buildings in Boston, including the Methodist church, the Masonic temple and several homes, were unroofed by the storm.

Whoopie! Rodeo Cowboys Stage A Real Battle

TIFFIN, O., Sept. 26.—Two men nursed injuries today as the aftermath of a battle at the Attica fair near here last night between cowboys of a wild west show and spectators.

Herbert Beilmer, 22, of Carrothers, accused by showmen of cutting a peak hole in the tent, was chased by one of the performers, John Card, 38.

Case, however, yielded a tent pole and in addition to beating Beilmer over the head, stirred the fair crowd to anger. In a short-lived melee, Jim Rex, 40, Hildan, Ill., received a broken nose. The crowd threatened to wreck the show but was quieted by Marshal Ralph Chilcote, who arrested Rex.

Justice E. R. Bernard dismissed Rex, saying the cowboy's broken nose was punishment enough. Case was fined $25.00.

Government Blasts Attempt of Gangsters To "Frame" Federal Attorney.

WERE TO CHARGE BRIBERY

Druggan, Other Hoodlums Hoped "Frame-Up" Would Beat Pen Term.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The Tribune said today that federal officials have exploded a plot designed by Terry Druggan and other hoodlums associated with him in prohibition and income tax law violations to attempt to damage the character of George E. Johnson, U. S. district attorney, and to obstruct government prosecution of Druggan, Al Capone, Frank Lake and Jack Guzik.

The plot had advanced to the point, the Tribune said, where Druggan intended to testify from the witness stand in federal court during his income tax evasion trial that he had paid $75,000 to procure immunity from punishment. Druggan planned to swear that his money reached Johnson's office.

The federal investigation of the reported plot, the Tribune said, had not reached the point where all the names of persons involved could be mentioned.

The outstanding facts of the plot, the Tribune said, were that Druggan and Lake were confronted with impeachment in a federal prosecution, and having fought off punishment this long, were determined to stay free at any cost.

Johnson has been working with high officials of both the department of justice and the income tax department in Washington to bring together the circumstances of the conspiracy, the Tribune said.

HUNGRY CHINESE BESIEGE LINDY IN FLOOD AREA

Starving Throng Surrounds Flier's Plane Near Hinghwa, Causing Fear Craft Might Be Seriously Damaged and Occupants Injured.

SCENE PICTURED AS HEART-RENDING

Lindbergh Deeply Touched as Mob's Clamoring for Food Forces Departure To Save Ship; Community Isolated by Floods.

By The Associated Press
NANKING, Sept. 26.—A crying, starving throng surrounded the plane of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh when it landed on flood waters near Hinghwa, northern Kiangsu province, today and for a time it was feared the craft would be seriously damaged and even its occupants harmed.

Coming in sampans, tubs and anything floatable, the throng surged around the plane, snatching at packages it contained. The desperately hungry natives wanted food and were bitterly disappointed when they learned the plane brought only medical supplies.

Col. Lindbergh, Dr. Teng Liu, director of the national flood relief commission's department of hygiene and sanitation, and Dr. J. N. Grant, American faculty member of the Peking Union Medical college, who made the flight, took off almost immediately to return to Nanking, deciding they could do nothing except to save the plane from possible damage.

Flooded Nearly Month
Hinghwa has been flooded for nearly a month, its residents being forced to make their way around in various watercraft.

Speaking of the incident, Col. Lindbergh said:

"It was the most heart-rending experience of my career."

He said it was not the possible danger that worried him. It was the realization of their helplessness when confronted by such a welter of human misery so near starvation and unable to understand the humanitarian purpose of the visit.

Hinghwa is 75 miles northwest of Nanking and almost in the center of the lowest point of the basin between the Grand canal and the Yellow Sea. Normally it is a thriving market town. It is the county seat of Hinghwa county which prior to the flood had a population of 900,000.

Mrs. Lindbergh Not Present
Mrs. Lindbergh missed the trying experience. She remained at Nanking when the party took off earlier in the day, deciding Dr. Liu and Dr. Grant would need the space she might occupy. Hinghwa is now under 10 feet of water. In the past month Hinghwa has been virtually isolated, with the nearest dry land 20 miles away. But little food has reached the city and the supply is at its lowest.

ROUTE 20 RESIDENTS IN INDIGNATION MEET

Protest Against "Speed-Trap" Accusation and Reported Route Split.

By The Associated Press
NORWALK, O., Sept. 26.—An indignation meeting of representatives of towns along federal route 20 to protest "speed trap" accusations against the city of Fremont by the Cleveland Automobile club today had developed into a fight against splitting the route.

Meeting here last night, half a hundred members of the route 20 association declared reported action of Governor White in labeling state route 2 as a northern branch of federal route 20. A telegram was sent the governor vigorously protesting the action.

It was pointed out on an argument against the reported split, that state route 2 passes over a privately owned toll bridge over Sandusky bay, which E. A. Sherrill of Oberlin declared would have to be purchased by the state before the federal highway commission would consent to the new designation. The estimated price was $100,000.

The northern branch of the route would pass through Lorain, Fremont, Sandusky, Port Clinton and Toledo.

WITTENBERG VICTOR OVER GEORGETOWN IN FRIDAY NIGHT BATTLE

Three State Teams Turn in Sensational Wins Over Foreign Eleven.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, Sept. 26.—Rumblings of the football wars on the mid-western front were audible today for preliminary skirmishes.

Three western conference eleven, Chicago, Indiana and Minnesota had experimental tests, and several score of minor colleges were playing their opening engagements, while at Notre Dame, a game between the 1931 Irish regulars and reserves held a high place on the schedule because the receipts were to go into the Knute Rockne memorial fund.

Indiana's Hoosiers had the most difficult assignment of the day, but the appearance of Amos Alonzo Stagg's fourth university of Chicago squad shared the spotlight. Chicago has had no other head football coach than Stagg, and though the Maroons have not been of championship caliber since 1925, the old man has a lot of sentimental backers.

Indiana had Ohio University of Athens, O., as its opening opponent, and was figured to get a vigorous testing. The Ohio eleven dominated the minor college field in its season last year, and is strong again this season, while the Hoosiers were anxiously watching to see what a promising crop of sophomores would do.

Chicago had a double header engagement, meeting Villanova, Mich. college and Cornell, of Mt. Vernon, Ia. Neither adversary was figured to defeat the Maroons, but hard battles were expected, Minnesota of which almost anything may be expected, also had two games on its first program, tackling Illinois, Wis. college, and the North Dakota Aggies.

Michigan State college, which has been slowly working itself back to the high position it enjoyed before the World war, had Alma, Mich. college as its initial test. Coach James (Sleepy) Crowley, one of Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen," is starting his third season as head coach of the Spartans, and has a promising outlook.

BREWERS DRAW BEST IN SMALLER CIRCUIT

Milwaukee Leads in Box Office Receipts Though Saints Win Flag.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Milwaukee's Brewers failed to land the pennant but they brought more cheer to the American association box office than any club in the circuit during the 1929 campaign.

President Thomas Jefferson Hickey today said that while the season's receipts were not as heavy as a year ago that Milwaukee drew the largest crowds in the circuit.

Hickey said he considers St. Paul as one of the strongest teams ever to represent his league in the "little world series," and that he expected the Saints to defeat the Rochester Red Wings, winner of the International league title, and bring the class AA title back to the midwest.

The Kansas City yesterday whipped Minneapolis, 11 to 4, and gained another half game over Indianapolis in what remains of the second place battle, while Toledo gave Louisville its seventh straight beating, 8 to 3.

The season will close Sunday.

HOYT HOLDS PAIR OF VICTORIES OVER CARDINALS IN 1928 CLASSIC

Athletics' New Star Twirled for Yanks

By The Associated Press
PHILADELPHIA—Batteries for Philadelphia, Hoyt pitching, Cochran catching.

Believed by the announcer in the forthcoming world's series between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals, that's a sound that should give the National league champions no great comfort. That is, if their memory extends back to 1928.

Just three years ago the old "school boy wonder," who has seen some hot days since, though he is now back on the crest, turned in two victories for the New York Yankees in the classic against these same Cardinals.

Wen Two in 1928
Hoyt won half of the games in the series, which went only four games, as the Yankees for the second straight year made a clean sweep of the National league representative.

Since those gala days the Brooklyn undertaker has had some tough shelling, and unless every body is all wrong there is slight possibility that he will become the "shining hero" of the coming battle, but there is quite a chance that he might slip in a victory for the Athletics.

Hoyt has been pitching great ball for the Athletics since the club disagreed with the Detroit Tigers that he should be waived out of the league.

Last year the Yankees sent Hoyt to the Detroit Tigers in a trade that didn't mean much one way or the other, and he pitched with very indifferent success this season until finally the Tigers asked for waivers.

A's Grabbed Him
All clubs in the American league passed him up except the Athletics. Hoyt has been appearing periodically in these world's-series over since 1921, the year his two victories for the Yanks against the New York Giants weren't enough to win for Babe Ruth and his other playmates. In all Hoyt has won six world's series games against three defeats. That's a record to give pause to the Cardinals or any other club.

RUTH GRABS LEAD IN HOME RUN RACE BY HITTING TWO FRIDAY

New York, Washington Set Batting for Second Place.

By The Associated Press
Associated Press Sports Writer
The related rush of the New York Yankees, which has provided most of the thrills for the American league campaign since the Athletics clinched the pennant, has put its final decision as to whether it tanks or Washington will finish in second place up to today's closing doubleheader between the teams.

Things began to look a bit doubtful for the Yankees a couple of days ago, when, after getting into second place with 10 straight victories, they dropped back by losing to Cleveland, then they dropped the series' opener to the Senators to fall a game and a half behind. Yesterday Ruth led them back into the thick of the battle with an 8 to 3 triumph.

Babe Closes Two.
It was a battle of home runs. The Babe outdid them all by clearing his forty-fifth and forty-sixth homers of the year to regain the major league lead from Lou Gehrig. Joe Kuhel socked one to give the Senators a 2-0 lead. Herb Pennock surprised everyone in the stadium by dropping a homer into the bleachers, and Ruth brought the count up to 2-3 with his first of the game.

The Babe tied the count in the eighth with homer #5 and started a rally that drove Alvin Crowder from the box and brought in fast runs to decide the battle.

If either the Yankees or Washington can win both games today, the team will clinch second place. Even though all put things up to Sunday's closing contest, with New York against Philadelphia and Washington against Boston.

Rockie Wins for A's
Only one other game was played in the major leagues yesterday, and that revealed that Philadelphia Athletics have another good pitcher who had not been counted on. Lew Krause, an 18-year-old youngster who was graduated from the Media, Pa., high school in 1928, made his debut as a major league starting pitcher by holding the Boston Red Sox to four hits and winning 7 to 1.

The Chicago St. Louis American league game was rained out, giving the teams two successful doubleheaders to wind up the season. Other major league clubs' games scheduled.

Ball Team Guests.
Members of the Essex Tru County baseball team were entertained at a card party by St. Harold Haughs Wednesday night at his home on east Farming street. Those present were Curtis Long, Joseph W. Seebach and Edward Morgan of Essex, Ted Anderson, Abner Cross, Bud Honaker and Herbert and Jacob Strong of Marion. Refreshments were served.

Races Close Today.
CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Luna Field's thirty-day racing season comes to its close today with the sixth running of the Matagorda handicap, a $10,000 added event for three-year olds, and upward at a mile and an eighth.

Have You the Room I Want?

I am a stranger in Marion. I just arrived. Many are coming "in" NOW. I want to be near my work, but in a pleasant location. I want a homelike room with nice people. I am only one of hundreds of many men that want the same.

I do not know your street names so I shop up and down the Marion Star "To Rent—Rooms" advertisements—not up and down the street for signs. You probably have just the room I am looking for. Won't you help me to find your room by advertising it in the "To Rent—Rooms" want ads of

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Specials in vegetable prices rather than in fruits featured the week-end offerings of dealers today. The prices, however, showed but little reduction from the prices which prevailed all week. Potatoes at 25 cents a bushel and sweet potatoes at 10 cents for 25 cents were among the offerings. Several dealers were also offering 10 pounds of onions for 25 cents and celery at three bunches for 25 cents. Other vegetable prices showed little change. Supplies of all kinds were large and dealers reported fairly heavy buying. Some sweetcorn was on the market although the quality was only fair and the demand light. A price of 15 cents was being asked.

Fruit prices were in the main, the same as yesterday, the only special being offered oranges at 15 for 25 cents and Maudie Bush apples at eight pounds for 25 cents. Peaches were scarce and dealers report a limited demand. Home grown fruit continues to supply practically the entire demand and the prices hold around 70 cents. Few home grown grapes are on the market. Today grapes were selling today at two pounds for 17 cents.

ENGLISH SLUMP AFFECTS WHEAT

Argentine Report Also Reflects Unfavorably, Forcing General Sag.
By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Lower prices for grain early today accompanied reports that Argentina was offering wheat freely abroad. It was also asserted that actually the Liverpool wheat market this week had fallen 5 cents a bushel. Opening at 14 cent off to 1/2 on wheat, afterward underwent a general sag. Corn started unchanged to 1/2 lower and subsequently receded all around.

Wheat bears emphasized comment that although it was admitted that commodities were selling below cost of production, neither merchants nor speculative interests showed sufficient confidence to take advantage of the situation. There was also talk that with large Russian shipments headed for Great Britain and with likelihood that Canada would receive preference under a proposed British tariff duty of ten per cent, indications were that the United States was not going to participate in English demand for wheat. It was added, however, that under the most favorable conditions neither Argentine nor Australia would raise a large crop, and that by the turn of the year it not sooner the Oriental demand for North American wheat would improve.

Interest in the corn market continued to focus on the September delivery. Tending to handicap bulls were increased receipts of corn here, 100 cars compared with 83 a week ago. It was pointed out, though, that the United States corn visible supply was decreasing, and that an important factor would be the weather and the attitude of producers. A factor mentioned as to the latter was that owing to economic conditions farmers would be unable to refrain from selling freely. Oats moved with other cereals.

Provisions were responsive to grain weakness, despite upturns in hog values.

FORMER LOCAL MAN
BURNED IN ACCIDENT
R. E. Amann, Former Street
Railway Head, in California Hospital.

Word of the serious injury of R. E. Amann, for nine years superintendent of the Marion Street Railway Co., at a power plant explosion in Tehachapi, Calif., was received today from Mrs. AMANN of Los Angeles.
Amann, according to Mrs.
Amann's letter, has been in the hospital at Bakersfield since the accident six weeks ago and while his condition is better, his recovery is slow due to injuries to his eyes. While in this city, Amann was prominent in Masonic circles.
His home address is given by Mrs.
Amann as 5709 Rimpau boulevard,
Los Angeles.
According to the Bakersfield
California, the accident occurred when Amann, who was employed as chief electrician at the plant of the Monolith Cement Co., at Tehachapi, Calif., threw in a switch
after the plant had been flooded
by a cloud burst.
Water had short-circuited power lines in the plant and when he threw the switch flames destruced it. He was badly burned.

of the notorious Mrs. Reynolds in "Alexander Hamilton," playing at

George Arliss produced "Hamilton"
on the New York stage.
Mrs. Collyer's grandfather, Dan

ager for Arliss for seven years while Arliss was acting in the stage plays of "Disraeli," "Faginini,"
"The Professor's Love Story" and

Consolidation in Bowling
Green Township, LaRue
Not Protested.
With the voters of affected precincts tacitly consenting, Bowling Green township precincts east and west, and LaRue village precincts north and south have become officially two precincts. There are now 66 precincts in the city and county as compared with 71 during the primary.
Voters of affected areas were given opportunity to file protest against the proposed combination, but none took exception to the consolidations. C. G. Rittler, deputy clerk of the board of elections, said today.

HEAT, LOW PRICES
HIT PEACH SUPPLY
Unable To Realize Profits Under Present Conditions, Dealers Say.
The week found the markets free of any unusual features, the disappearance of the peach surplus providing practically the only unusual feature. In view of the tremendous surplus in the northern Ohio orchards, inability to realize profit on the shipped in fruit was given by dealers as the cause of the sudden reduction in the supply. The warm weather of the last two weeks has also played an important part in bringing about smaller supplies, the heat increasing the spoilage to such an extent that the profits were wiped out, dealers say.
There has also been a shortage
all week of home grown grapes, despite large crops reported by growers. At no time during the week was there a large supply on the markets while growers were offering good quality grapes at two cents a pound in order to move their crop. Today grapes were being offered today at two cents for 17 cents as a special.
Pears have also been scarce on the markets, only a few were being carried this week and the price remained at 75 cents.
The week saw the gradual disappearance of sweet corn, while growers continue to offer 12 cents for 11, the supply on the city markets has grown less, the quality was only fair and a price of 10 cents asked. Cornucopia were placed all week and a price of 10 cents a bushel which previously only in the week, dropped to 10 cents, making the market of the week two again advanced to 10 cents by the latter part.
Potatoes were on the market in large quantities the latter part of the week and were then at 10 cents for 10 to 15 cents. Potatoes were plentiful between 10 to 15 cents a bushel all week while onions ranged from 10 to 15 cents for 10 cents.

Man of the Hour

BY REV. H. M. MAXWELL
Pastor of Grace, Salem Evangelical Church.

David removed not the ark unto him into the city of David, but carried it unto the house of Obadedom the Gittite. And the ark of God remained with the family of Obadedom in his house three months; and Jehovah blessed the house of Obadedom, and all he had." 1 Chron. 13:13, 14.

Very little has been written or spoken about the man, Obadedom, the Gittite, but what is written in these two verses will give us a brief biography of the man.

1. Obadedom the man of the hour. An emergency had arisen, which seemed to tax present resources. A "nathu-man" was needed; a man who needed not to get ready, but was ready; a man who was dependable, and quick to act. This man met the need, and quieted the fears of troubled hearts.

2. Obadedom, the man at home with God. His door was flung wide open for the ark. It was well timed. Whatever was required of him, he would try and fulfill. God could count on him for his best. The presence of the ark did not disturb the life of the family, but rather encouraged it. This man trusted God.

3. Obadedom, the God-blessed man. What others had feared, he accepted as a blessing. Through his act and influence the blessings of God were shared with his family. All that he had, we are told, was blessed. We can believe that his life proved a benediction to the community in which he lived, for "no man liveth unto himself."

ASK DAMAGES IN DEATH OF CATTLE

Upper Sandusky Residents File Suit Against City in Sum of $600.

Special to The Star
UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 26—
Two damage suits totaling $600,
were filed in common pleas court Friday against the village of Upper Sandusky by Attorney A. E. Walton representing Miss Savilla Sireby and E. K. Keeler.

The money is claimed due from the city
because of cattle killed by weed destroyer which was used along the outside edge of a pasture in the north part of this city, where the cattle of the plaintiffs had been confined. Miss Sireby asks for damages to the amount of $400 and Keeler asks for damages amounting to $200.

At the meeting of the city council last week an effort was made to make a settlement for the stock destroyed. The council had the cattle appraised at the time they were killed by the weed destroyer and the owners also had them appraised, but the difference in the amount of the two appraisements made it impossible to reach an agreement at this meeting of the council.

Entertainment

THIS era of red hot orchestras and mammoth radio music is a far cry from the days when to enjoy the dances, or rather the "near dances" meant that one had to step and be the orchestra too. In other words, those who would dance must sing. Many a score was a huge success at no cost to the hostess aside from the ice-cream and cake, with nothing but "Skip To My Lou, My Darling," although we are forced to admit we sang it "Skip Come Lou." And no silver-voiced radio entertainer ever set hearts a flutter or brought forth more giggles than the "corker" who could think up parodies on these:

"Little red wagon painted blue,
Little red wagon painted blue,
Little red wagon painted blue,
Little red wagon painted blue,
Skip to my Lou, my darling."

Fly in the sugarbowl kickin' up the lid,
Fly in the sugarbowl kickin' up the lid,
Fly in the sugarbowl kickin' up the lid,
Fly in the sugarbowl kickin' up the lid,
Skip to my Lou, my darling."

Happy is the miller that lives by the mill,
Happy is the miller that lives by the mill,
Happy is the miller that lives by the mill,
Happy is the miller that lives by the mill,
Skip to my Lou, my darling."

The mill goes around with a right good will,
The mill goes around with a right good will,
The mill goes around with a right good will,
The mill goes around with a right good will,
Skip to my Lou, my darling."

The ladies step forward and the gentlemen step back,
The ladies step forward and the gentlemen step back,
The ladies step forward and the gentlemen step back,
The ladies step forward and the gentlemen step back,
Skip to my Lou, my darling."

There are dishes and dishes and we'd like to see the hand-painted glass and cut glass pushed off and brought into their own again. The cream could be a trifling sour but poured from a dashing cut glass pitcher eased the blow and the cream was taken off a tough lower crust as the hand-painted landscape or multi-colored parades came into view on the no-two-disk pie plates.

Games
The ancient game of dice is the oldest of all gambling games. We are told Dominos put in an appearance in the Middle Ages and cards were later. In the early Seventeenth century the North American Indians were drawn by the gambling passion and it was a common practice for them to stake everything on the throw of a die.

Weddings
The marriage of Miss Genevieve Lattimore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lattimore of 508 Blaine avenue to Leroy Conklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Conklin of 331 Cherry street, was announced at a party last evening at the Lattimore home. Rev. Philip Wiggemann, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical church in Covington, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a frock of dark blue chiffon with eggshell shade of slippers, hat and gloves. A small umbrella suspended from the ceiling, was decorated with pink and green streamers on which were fastened candles. One streamer bore the announcement. A miniature airplane delivered the wedding certificate and rings to the guests. The bridesmaids were seated in full flowers and with pink and green ribbons.

Seven tables were filled for coffee, honorees going to Miss Martha Howison and Miss Hazel Seiter. Mrs. Lattimore and Mrs. C. J. Conklin assisted the bride in serving.

Guests were Mrs. C. J. Conklin, Mrs. Lattimore and Misses Hazel Seiter, Cora Dittich, Della McDonald, Hazel Fox, Naomi Higgins, Virginia Mahoney, Hazel Layman, Golda Messenger, Elsie Ackerman, Marguerite Morhoff, Phyllis Nickels, Dorothy Fox, Kathleen Guiden, Ruth Webster, Martha Howison, Martha Gubben, Pauline Thomas, Mary Donathan, Irene Guiden, Dorothy Conklin, Mollie Reux, Thula McElroy and Helen Dull.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Conklin attended Harding high school. Mr. Conklin was graduated with the class of 1923. Mrs. Conklin is employed with the E. W. Woolworth Co. Mr. Conklin manages Conklin's Vine street grocery. They will live at 481 Blaine avenue.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ABLE GAMBISON

HANK hesitated for a few seconds after Dicky had asked him if he had heard of even anything which made him think that the Chinese miscreants were watching him and himself when they made the discovery of the apparently lifeless man in the corridor.

"No," he said at last. "We didn't hear or see anything but we sort of felt somebody not far off was watching us. But I don't know. Isn't it true, Uncle Dicky, that sometimes you can feel things that are near you without seeing or hearing them?"

"Try say so, boy," Dicky said heartily. "I haven't any doubt that they not only watched you find this body, but that they have an eye or two or three coked in this direction right now."

I sternly jerked back a terrified little exclamation at the picture which Dicky's words brought before me. Not for worlds would I have had him suspect the terror which was mine at the thought of that silent watching menace behind us.

"There's only one thing they don't know," Mr. Underwood said. "And that is?" Dicky asked, as the big man hesitated.

"If he can only talk."

"They're not sure whether this fellow has croaked yet or not," Mr. Underwood said. "I can't imagine how they missed making a complete job of it. Why they left over the breath that is still in his battered body, is beyond me."

"It seems to me, I've read some-where," Dicky said. "That some Orientals possess the power of simulating death. This poor devil may have been wily enough to do just that. Then, when his torturer had put him in the corridor and left him, he probably relaxed from the strain of pretending that he was dead, and lapsed into unconsciousness, which I am afraid will never break."

"I'm not so sure," Mr. Underwood said grimly. "True, I've never seen a man more done than this one, but I've seen some well-nigh hopeless cases come back to consciousness. After all, that is the main thing. I don't want him to die, of course, but even more important than his life is what he can tell us."

"Yes," Dicky agreed. "That's the main thing. If he can revive well enough to speak."

At the farmhouse.

For an instant I felt physically ill at the apparent callousness toward the wounded Chinese displayed by my husband and his friend. Then I realized that their apathy really meant only a reluctance to waste words when so much was at stake. With the wise determination not to waste any of my own energy in worrying about something which I could not help, but to follow the hackneyed old recipe of doing one thing at a time and letting all the rest take care of themselves, I stepped my mind of everything save the necessity of getting the wounded man to the farmhouse without losing him any more than was necessary.

So slowly did I drive because of the bumps in the road, that Bill arrived much ahead of us. When we reached the farmhouse, Lillian threw the door wide open and Jim appeared at the side of the car as if he had risen from the ground.

"Katherine says to bring him into the library," Lillian said. "The doctor is on the way."

Dicky and Hank were out of the car almost before it stopped, and in an infinitely short time the apparently lifeless figure of the Chinese was deposited in the library upon the emergency hospital cot which had stood in the farmhouse storeroom ever since Katherine came to us and stocked the house with everything necessary for first aid surgical and medical treatment.

Katherine takes charge.

Katherine bent over the unconscious figure as Harry Underwood laid him down and the rest of us waited tensely as she put her fingers upon the man's wrist and searched his face with her wise and tender eyes.

There was no expression in her face as she turned back to us, but her manner was peremptory as she picked up her hypodermic syringe from the little emergency table which she had already rigged up beside the bed.

"Everybody but Harry and Dicky, please get out of here," she said. "Madge, send that doctor in a-running when he gets here and see that the supply of boiling wa-

and went downstairs I was feeling good. I bet if Mueh hadn't dumped us I wouldn't have been feeling so good. He thought that was a good trick. I wasn't mad at him at all.
When I had got the cows milked and the stable cleaned and before we went to take our cows we went around to the schoolhouse. We kinda like to look at the old ab-bang on Saturdays, because it is locked up like we wish it would be always, and there is not a teacher around to tell you to stop doing things. I thought I would tell Mueh that was a good trick and that it was all right with us if he hadn't went to work. And he hadn't.
The truck was in the school yard and Mueh was up in it with a shovel. Some of the cement he had in it yesterday had got wet with the rain and had stuck to the steel bottom of the truck and got hard and he was standing up in it stabbing the cement with the edge of the shovel to break it loose, and me and Banty and Peanuts got up and sat on the seat and acted him where he was working and he told us and he had turned around with his back to the back end so that he could watch us whilst he worked and he was jabbing away when all at once Banty pulled the handle and the truck up-ended and Mueh got down to the school-yard
so hard that he went "Whump!"
which was probably because he is so fat, and his wife must of been wailing out of the basement window because she came dashing out with a broom and we went over the school fence and faded like a flock of birds. I hope he didn't get hurt-much.
From there we went out to the pasture with the cows and went in swimming in the creek and the water was warmer than the air,
but neither one was so very warm, and our lips got blue and when we came out on the bank and stood there with goose pimples all over us the Last Day of Term had chaw-raw-beefed all of our shirts and skins out. My shirt, was chawed, and my red suspenders had about a million knots in them, and they were pulled so tight I couldn't get them untied, so I over them loose like that. Ten minutes went down to the dam to take for swimming and I took off my suspenders and went in to get the knots out, when all of a sudden my shirt said, "Aren't you going to speak to me, Thomas Arthur?"
and there was Thomas Arthur and I jumped up, and when I had to grab my suspenders so quick so I could because my suspenders was off.
When I had got them on again I was hot in the house and shivered but the apple and told her what I was and that I was going to keep it straight. She said I was telling. She said she would bring me a small one.
